

Parent & Child DIY Valentine's Day Card Craft

A great way for your child to practice scissor skills and celebrate the upcoming holiday is to create this Valentine's Day Construction Paper Card Craft.

Materials

- Construction Paper. You need 2 sheets of the base card color and the colors for the inside of your heart. You can go all pink, purple, and red or mix it up with all the colors of the rainbow!
- Scissors. Make sure they are appropriate for the age of your child.
- Glue Stick.
- Writing Utensil.

Instructions

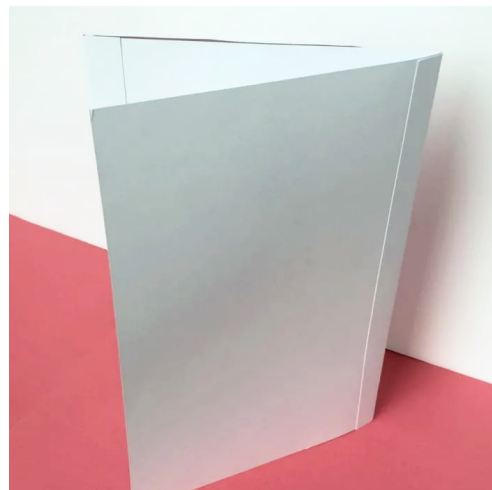

1. Depending on the age of your child you might want to start by drawing some lines on your “heart” pieces of paper. This will give them a guideline that they may or may not choose to follow. Just let them cut as many strips of paper as they can or want to.

2. Take this time to get the card ready. To do this you need to make the paper with your heart cut out a bit wider than the front of your card. Then fold that piece in half and cut out a heart or hearts. Make sure not to cut into your margin space.

3. Have your little one glue down the strips on the front of the card. They can overlap or stick over the edge it won't matter.

4. Then trim the edges of the card.

5. Now it's time to add your heart! Pre-crease the margins over the front of the card. Next, add glue.

6. Start by gluing your margin inside the cover, then fold over your cut pieces of paper.

7. Then crease and fold down the second margin on the back. This will keep your strips in place.

Now your one of a kind card is complete!
Anyone would be excited to receive one!

We have included an opportunity for your child to win $25 just for completing the 'Spot the Difference' / Coloring Page below.

Explaining Money is Our Thing

C·U·D wants to help parents teach their children about money. Whether that is how to save, spend, give or share, learning good money habits starts early.

We recommend starting out with the It's A Money Thing Jr. video series for our younger members. They are located towards the bottom of our page. The videos are free and fun for all ages!
